The OM-2 Spot was a significant advancement over the original OM-2 and is more similar to the OM-4 (made from 1984-1986). Where the OM-2 would die without the battery, the Spot was still able to fire at 1/60th of a second. The "Auto" mode in the Spot operates the same was as the original OM-2. In Manual mode, it meters from the central prism area only (about 2% of the field of view) which is where the name came from.
