The Florida Aquarium has made coral reproduction history several times! In 2020, we were the first to reproduce and film larvae of the Ridged Cactus Coral and in 2019, we were able to induce spawning of several species of Atlantic coral in a laboratory setting! These ground-breaking, globally recognized, advancements facilitate our ability to increase the genetic diversity of coral offspring, conduct vital health research to improve coral care and husbandry techniques, and scale up coral ...

This four foot, 90 gallon aquarium was set up almost a year ago in November of last year and also uses the MaxSpect Aeraqua Duo protein skimmer, two Maxspect Jump 4K Gyre pumps, a controllable DC pump for the return, a Reef Octopus calcium reactor, a chiller and a 15 watt UV sterilizer. One might think that two Gyre pumps would be barely enough for a tank full of Acros but one important design feature of the Reef Trigger SPS tank is the minimal use of rock in the aquascape, allowing the ...
