The old cottage beneath the red evening sky presents an idyllic picture of rural life. Van Gogh called these humble farmhouses 'people's nests'. He felt they had a sheltering quality. This cottage contains two houses with two front doors and a shared chimney. That type of dwelling was then on the brink of disappearing. 'The thing struck me greatly; those two cottages, half decayed under one ...

In the diagram below, we'll see the hierarchy of colors; first is yellow, second is green, third is red, fourth is blue. Van Gogh has got the four colors for a complete color balance, but notice how we aren't really concerned with any varying hues, tints, tones, and shades. We are just looking at the hierarchy he's created with the four colors.
