What is Walled Garden? - Definition from Techopedia

A walled garden is a garden enclosed by high walls for horticultural rather than security purposes, although originally all gardens may have been enclosed for protection from animal or human intruders. In temperate climates, the essential function of the walls surrounding a walled garden is to shelter the garden from wind and frost, though they may also serve a decorative purpose.

Walled gardens are one of the oldest garden types, going back to the Persians thousands of years ago. In those ancient gardens there were high walls for protection, a water feature (often a long narrow pool) in the center, and plants lining the pool and paths—all very geometric, formal and balanced. It was a symbolic representation of heaven ...
