It's extremely common for people using CPAP to still experience apneas while they sleep. Of course, since CPAP is designed to treat apneas, this raises some common questions: If I use CPAP, why do I still have apneas? (In other words, why is my CPAP machine showing an AHI – apneas and hypopneas I have per hour– more than zero?)

I use CPAP. Why do I still have apneas? - Sleep Apnea

This question often crops up among evolution disbelievers. And while it underscores the truth that most people truly don't believe man came from rats, fish, and single-celled organisms up through the primates, it ignores the fact that evolutionists have a ready answer to it. First, evolutionists strongly deny the idea that men came from the apes. They insist that both man and the apes came ...
